

Front cover

Our wish is to leave a Narita International Airport, surrounded by a rich, beautiful natural environment, to future generations. It was with that thought in mind that we selected the photograph for the front cover. The photograph looks up to the skies through the flowers that have been planted around the airport, observing an aircraft passing overhead from the vantage point of the fauna and flora that live within. The insect on the back cover is a Japanese firefly, which is found in the area around the airport. These represent the rich natural environment that we, along with the local community, place great value in.
